THE BUOYANT POWER OF WATER.

The human body weighs a pound in the water, and a chair will carry two grown persons—that is it will keep the head above water, which is all that is necessary when it is a question of life or death. One finger placed upon a stool or chair, or a small box, or a piece of board, will easily keep the head above water, while the two feet and the other hand may be used as paddles to propel towards the shore. It is not necessary to know how to swim to be able to keep from drowning in this way. A little experience of the buoyant power of water, and faith in it, is all that is required. We have seen a small boy, who could not swim a stroke, propel himself back and forth across a deep, wide pond by means of a board that would not sustain five pounds' weight. Children and all others should have practice in the sustaining power of water. In nine cases out of ten the knowledge that what will sustain a pound weight is all that is necessary to keep one's head above the water, will serve better in emergencies than the greatest expertness as a swimmer.

BLUFFING A REPORTER.

"There is a rumor that you are going to open a bank, Senator," said a Chronicle reporter to Senator James G. Fair, who was met on Montgomery street last evening.

"Well, well, one of the boys was saying he'd heard such a rumor, do you know," replied the Senator, softly.

"Yes, a bank in the Real Estate Associates' building, on Montgomery street," it was suggested.

"It's strange," mused the Senator, "how little items of news are sought for, and not one of you ever say a word in the paper about that new pavement I've had laid on Pine street, between Montgomery and Sansome. Why, my son, it's like driving over velvet."

"And that ex-Bank Commissioner Evan J. Coleman is to manage the bank for you," persisted the reporter.

"Bless me," slowly remarked the Senator, carefully knocking the ashes from his cigar, "the famous pavements of Paris are like dressed granite and knock a horse's feet all to pieces, while the pavement I've had laid has such a spring—did you ever notice the spring of it, my son?"

"And that you sold your interest in the Nevada Bank in order to start this new bank," urged the interviewer.

"As I was saying to one of the newspaper men in Washington, I never like to keep a bit of news from the public. Now, isn't this a lovely evening? Really, the evenings in San Francisco are pleasanter than the days," soliloquized the Senator, gazing with rapt attention into the sky.—San Francisco Chronicle.

EXCESSIVE EXERCISE.

The newspapers reported the following fatal cases, all of which occurred during a single week, and all from a similar cause:

In New York, a young man, who was in training to enter the inter-collegiate sports, died from heart disease, superinduced by the strain of excessive running;

In Chicago, another lad was attacked with hemorrhage while pole-vauling, and died after a day's illness;

In Philadelphia, a student of the Pennsylvania University died from the effects of too protracted strain in rowing; and

In Bethlehem, a student of Lehigh University was killed by the breaking of a pole over which he was jumping.

The newspapers also contained accounts of three other accidents to young men while training for athletic exhibitions, by which they were lamed or disfigured for life.

Now it would be folly to base on such accidents as these a verdict against all athletic sports. But there is as much difference between the athletic exercises which strengthen the muscles, develop the chest, and conduce to health and cheerfulness, and the feats, both useless and dangerous, which are undertaken simply for display, as there is between a canter on a safe horse in the sunshine and the mad excitement of a race-ground.

Parents and college faculties should note the difference, and put a limit on the exhibitions on these athletic sport-days.

It is not only the boys, however, who are ready to sacrifice themselves on the altar of vanity. There is a strong dislike among young girls to any tendency to stoutness. Tight-lacing, fortunately, is out of fashion. But girls sometimes diet themselves excessively to reduce the figure to the desired symmetry.

Self-conceit is always dangerous to the mind, but in these cases it is actual murder to the body.—Youth's Companion.
